  "reply": "To tell if a news article is reliable:\n\n1. Check the Source: Is it a reputable, well-known news organization? Look at their \"About Us\" page.\n2. Verify the Author: Is an author named? Are they credible or an expert on the topic?\n3. Examine the Evidence: Does it cite sources, experts, or provide data? Are there links to original reports?\n4. Look for Sensationalism: Be wary of extreme headlines, emotional language, or obvious bias.\n5. Cross-Reference: Do other reputable news outlets report the same story?\n6. Inspect the URL & Date: Check the website's domain for oddities (.co, .biz) and ensure the information isn't outdated."

  "reply": "Credibility Score: 0/100\nVerdict: False\nSummary: The claim that Earth is the center of the universe is scientifically false. Modern astronomy and cosmology, based on extensive evidence, establish that Earth orbits the Sun, and there is no single, fixed center of the universe.\nReasoning: The geocentric model, which places Earth at the center, was a prevalent belief in ancient times. However, the heliocentric model, proposed by Copernicus and supported by observations from Galileo and Kepler's laws, correctly places the Sun at the center of our solar system. Furthermore, modern cosmology views the universe as expanding, with no discernible center from any observer's perspective.\nKey Claims Checked:\n- The earth is the center of the universe.",
